ABOUT

CORK INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVAL

Cork International Film Festival is Ireland's first and largest film festival and one of Cork's most significant and popular annual cultural events.

Harnessing the power of storytelling since 1956, the Festival mission is to present Ireland's most exciting, diverse and ambitious annual film festival, linking Cork audiences and artists to the world, and bringing the world to Cork through a carefully curated selection of the best films.

Over 11 days each November, the Festival presents a dynamic programme of more than 220 events, welcoming over 21,000 attendees to screenings, premieres, industry events, workshops, talks and special events across Cork City.

Our education and outreach programmes create opportunities for young people to access the arts, develop their creativity, and be empowered to tell their own stories.

The Festival is one of a handful of film festivals worldwide to host three awards with Oscar® accreditation. The Festival is a registered charity.
